

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A medical device is described that can be used to emulsify and remove atherosclerotic plaque from blood vessels. The device uses a high frequency ultrasound transducer and conical tip to enhance the generation of shear waves that can safely and efficiently emulsify plaque.